Kasanoh No Nakabutbuteng ni Maentras

The night before the first day of school, a little boy excitedly prepares his things with his father. Then, he starts to imagine all kinds of things that make him anxious about school and tells his father about them. The next morning, his anxiety continues as his parents take him to school. When they arrive at school, he sees many children playing. He goes to his classroom and is greeted by the friendly teacher. The other children begin to arrive and they all look friendly. This makes the boy feel better. He then sees a classmate who looks just as afraid as he was. He approached her and they become friends. The Kinder class begins—they sing songs, work on blocks, color some pictures and listen to stories. The little boy enjoyed his first day of school and begins to look forward to school everyday.
