Ti Baro a Siled-Pagbasaan

A school principal wanted to build a library for the school. She calls the parents to a meeting and asks for their help. The parents thought about the project and planned how to build the library. The next morning, fathers and mothers come to school with tools, building materials, pots, pans and food. Some cut, hammer, sand and painted while others prepare food. On the last day of the week, the library is finally done!
